NEW YELLOW LINE ORDINANCE PASSES ITS FIRST READING

WEST AVENUE ROUTE IS DECIDED UPON BY COUNCIL WITH "Y" TERMINAL ON TREMONT ST.—MATTER TO BE THRESHED OUT MARCH 7

ANCIENT TOMB OF "TUT" IS DISPUTED

French Egyptologist Claims New Discovery Is Temporary Refuge of Ancient Pharaoh

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Professor Beneditte, curator of the Luxembourg museum and one of the foremost Egyptologists in France, declared his belief today that the discovery of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, but a temporary refuge, where the mummy was secreted by friends to prevent the ancient Pharaoh's bitter enemy and usurper, King Armais, from finding and despoiling the grave.

Professor Beneditte's opinion was supported by another famous French Egyptologist, Professor Georges Rensple, curator of the Egyptian department of the Louvre museum. Both have been following the Luxor discoveries with intense interest and admit that the finding of an object more than 3,000 years old marks an epoch in Egyptian discoveries.

"The explorer, Dr. Davis, in 1912 found King Armais' tomb, but the wall decorations and inscriptions on the sarcophagus were proved to have been intended originally for Tut-Ankh-Amen," said Professor Beneditte. "We do not know who removed Tut-Ankh-Amen's body and installed the mummy of Armais in the tomb, but I am certain that the tomb found by Lord Carnarvon is not the royal sepulchre. The tombs of Rameses III, Rameses IX, Merneptah and Seti I. are much more luxurious and larger. It was necessary to cross four, five and even six hallways before arriving in the inner shrine containing the sarcophagus with the mummy."

ERIN REVOLTERS SURRENDER ARMS

DUBLIN, Feb. 20.—Tom Barry, chief leader of the republican irregulars at Cork, and his followers surrendered to the free state military forces today. Cork has been the center of irregular activity against the free state.

Barry's surrender is regarded as the most important for the free state, as he was one of the biggest military figures in the irregular movement. He was commander of all the armed republican forces in county Cork.

Barry's name has been mentioned several times in connection with the killing of Michael Collins in an ambush attack at Cork last summer.

The much talked about yellow line street railway franchise received its first reading last night, and some sections of it led to a lively discussion. It is a voluminous document of eleven type written pages in twenty-nine sections, and some sections contain a number of sub-paragraphs.

The ordinance provides for the line leaving Lodi street at West avenue and coming up that street as far as Broad street. Lodi street is to be double tracked, and a single track is to be laid on West avenue, with a "Y" for turning on Tremont street.

SEEK SPEEDIER ELECTION RETURNS

New Bill Would Compel Precinct and County Officials to Remain on Job Until Work Is Completed

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20.—Speedier election returns is the goal sought in the bill introduced by Representative Spidel, Montgomery county, chairman of the house elections committee.

The bill, drafted at the instance of Ohio newspaper publishers and editors, requires precinct election officials to remain in session from the time the polls close until all votes are counted and the result promptly transmitted by telegraph, or telephone, to the county election boards.

County election boards, under the proposed law, will be required to remain in session until all precinct returns are received and relayed without delay to the secretary of state by telegraph or telephone.

The bill seeks to empower the secretary of state to remove any election official who fails to comply with the provisions of this proposed law.

It is hoped by newspaper men that enactment of the proposed law will result in publication of complete unofficial election results at least an hour before the day after election.

Fred W. Ford, a track repairman, employed by an independent contractor, was killed by a passenger train on the night of August 23, 1920, while going to his bunk house on a railroad siding. His administrator sued, claiming the train was operated on the left hand track at excessive speed, without headlight and without warning by bell, or whistle.

SAYS HUSBAND IS FONDER OF POKER PLAYING

Poker parties do not appeal to Edith Stott, according to a divorce petition filed in court by her against Frederick Stott, formerly of Cleveland. The couple were married a year ago, and she states that a few days after marriage she was called to this city on account of the sickness of a relative. On her return to Cleveland she found the home littered with whiskey bottles, poker chips and filth. She spoke to her husband about it, and he told her that that was what she might expect as he expected to have other parties, and if she did not like it she could get out. She came to Elyria in April, and her husband disappeared, presumably going to Canada, and she has not seen him since. She owns property in Elyria, Cleveland and a life estate in Avon. She seeks that he be barred from any interest in her real estate, that he be ordered to pay her maintenance of $100 a month, and that she be awarded $1000 in damages.

Fred W. Ford, a track repairman, employed by an independent contractor, was killed by a passenger train on the night of August 23, 1920, while going to his bunk house on a railroad siding. ## AIM TO MODIFY NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

Bus and Taxi Measure Said to Be Made More Equitable—Liability Clause Eliminated

A new traffic ordinance was read at the council meeting last night. Mrs. Friday stated that the old ordinance did not deal equitably, and that as a consequence some changes were necessary. The new ordinance provides for a license fee of $25 each for taxicabs, or cars carrying seven passengers, and $50 fee for eight passenger cars, together with one-half cent per mile computed by figuring the routes to be followed by the cars, and the number of trips made per day. It was also decided to eliminate the liability clause, as the Supreme court had recently held that it was unconstitutional.

WILL RESTRICT SUNDAY SALES AT SMALL STORES

Mayor Jones Threatens Arrests if Meats and Groceries Are Sold on Sabbath

During the discussion of a zoning ordinance that would prevent the locating of small stores in the residence districts, it was stated at the council meeting last night that certain stores were in the habit of keeping open on Sunday and selling groceries and meats to customers. This gave Councilman Miller an opportunity to speak on the subject, and he quoted scripture in contention of his belief that the Sabbath should be kept holy. He himself runs a store on East avenue, and stated that he did not find it necessary to keep open on Sunday in order to live, and that he believed if he knew they did not do so. The statement was made that a store on East Broad street kept open on Sunday, and that the proprietor stated he would sell any article in his store if called for. The mayor replied that if this was true he would order an arrest made next Sunday. There was no intention of enforcing the blue laws in this city, but certain practices were forbidden and those who followed them up would have to suffer the consequences.

The mayor stated that word had been sent to outside stores not to sell meats and groceries, and that so far as he knew they did not do so. The statement was made that a store on East Broad street kept open on Sunday, and that the proprietor stated he would sell any article in his store if called for. The mayor replied that if this was true he would order an arrest made next Sunday. There was no intention of enforcing the blue laws in this city, but certain practices were forbidden and those who followed them up would have to suffer the consequences.

ENGLAND SEEKS NO VIEW OF U. S. ON RUHR

Premier Law Contents It Is Unnecessary; German Custom Officials Expelled; Turns to America For Food

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Premier A. Bonar Law informed the house of commons this afternoon that the government regards it unnecessary to obtain the views of the United States concerning French occupation of the Ruhr. This was taken as official confirmation that Great Britain has no intention of trying to bring about anglo-american intervention.

ESSEN, Feb. 20.—Scores of German customs officials, who had refused to work under French supervision, were ordered expelled from the Rhineland today by the Rhineland commission, sitting at Coblenz. French troops were prepared to meet any disorders arising over the deportations.

French military authorities granted permission to the Essen municipality to organize a civilian police force of six hundred men, but all must be residents of the city. The citizen-police may carry pistols if granted permits by the French.

ISSUE DEFY TO CHIROPRACTORS

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 20.—A new angle in the state wide fight between chiropractors and doctors of medicine came here today in the form of a challenge from Dr. C. D. Barrett, county health commissioner.

Dr. Barrett offers to drink typhoid germs, and diphtheria germs in his throat and sleep with a small-pox patient if "any local chiropractor" will do the same.

Chiropractors held a meeting here a few days ago in which they challenged the health commissioner to issue a challenge to debate the "chiropractic-physics" issue. No physicians attended the meeting. The lecturer during his address made the statement that "the germ theory of disease is a superstition."

RESERVE BOARD PICKS TEXAN AS NEW PRESIDENT

CLEVELAND, Feb. 20.—Plans for increasing the usefulness and extending the field of Western Reserve University are expected to be developed by Dr. Robert Erwin Vinson, president of the University of Texas, who has accepted the vacant presidency of the local institution, and will come here probably next July to take up his duties.

FAIL TO FIND BODY OF DOCTOR

Body of Nurse in Lake Erie Tragedy Is Shipped to Toledo Home

PORT CLINTON, Feb. 20.—Spurred on over their success in finding the body of Elyria Schools Toledo nurse, who went to death with Dr. Theodore Greist, Put-In-Bay, smashed through an air hole in Lake Erie, Put-In-Bay residents, headed by Mayor Alexander, whose wife Miss Schultz was nursing, this morning renewed their efforts to locate the physical body.

Shorly after locating Miss Schultz's body, which was found with grappling hooks, darkness late yesterday forced them to temporarily abandon the search just as they believed they had located the body of the physician.

Efforts of the islanders to recover Greist's body were unsuccessful up to 11 o'clock this morning. As was the case last night, several times the body was brought part way to the surface but the ragged fabric of the winter coat the physician wore rejected the grappling hooks, and it slipped off and sank again.

The body recovered late yesterday was taken to Put-In-Bay, and the body of Miss Schultz was shipped to Toledo for interment today.

THE WELFARE DEPARTMENT

The sum of two hundred thousand dollars was appropriated by the Legislature two years ago, to purchase a farm to be used in conjunction with the hospital for the insane at Newburg. More than that, a two mill levy was authorized for raising the money to take care of the insane patients, and the feeble minded. There are from fifteen to twenty thousand feeble minded individuals wandering the streets in such cities as Cleveland and in other towns in Ohio. Many are on the waiting-lists of our insane institutions, and Newburg has five hundred more patients now than it has room for. With this condition in the state, the money that was authorized to take care of these unfortunates lies in the treasury, ready for appropriation, and there has been no plan presented to the Board of Control to use these funds for the needy.

Whose fault is it? It lies directly at the door of the Director of Public Welfare of the State, and back of him, the responsibility of course rests on the Governor. If a definite program had been inaugurated and the plans laid before this board, the money would have been forthcoming, and unquestionably the buildings would now be well on their way toward completion. The Welfare Director did buy the farm, supposedly to be connected with the Newburg Asylum, but it is thirty miles from Newburg, too far for the superintendent to look after it, certainly too far to transport any of the patients to and from the farm, and in the judgment of all those who have investigated it, with any knowledge of the situation, the farm might just as well have been down in Hamilton County as far as using it for the Newburg Asylum is concerned.

The finance committee of both houses of the Legislature meet with the Auditor of State. They desire to make appropriations for the coming biennium, and want to know what to do for the insane and for the feeble-minded, but the former Director of Welfare has quit the job by limitation of time, (having served a year and a half and then a new Governor being elected). The new Public Welfare Director has no idea of what should be done, and is unable to plan immediately because he doesn't want to make any mistakes. In the meantime the state owns the farm. Warrensville is crowded with the insane on the waiting list, others are in private homes or in the streets of the city, and at least fifteen thousand feeble-minded need care.

The Director of Public Welfare however, made several hundred speeches during his term of office, visited some of the institutions, and drew his salary. That part of the state system is always in working order. If any other business than the state's business were run in such a slipshod, haphazard, neglectful and almost criminal manner, it would not last long enough for the sheriff to sell off the assets. The new Welfare Director will get some slight idea of his duties about the time that a new governor is inaugurated when it is likely that this director will be replaced by another.

No one suffers in this whole transaction but the poor feeble-minded, and the insane and their friends and relatives, and other parts of society which are tainted and affected, and the conscience of the state, and civilization generally. Otherwise there is no harm done. But see what's been gained. The victors at the polls have got the spoils, and the spoils are the appointive offices.

Some day worthy and able men will be retained in their respective positions, regardless of who is elected governor. Scientific knowledge and executive ability will be of as much value in looking after these thousands of unfortunate patients as is political reward for service rendered. In the meantime we can only watch, and pray, and stand ready to do our duty on election day.

WHERE DOES THE FAULT LIE

One of the peculiar conditions in society is the fact that virtue and vice, education and ignorance, wealth and poverty, plenty and want, may exist side by side, and the more fortunate know little or nothing of the conditions of the unfortunate. It is only when some outstanding incident calls them to our attention that we realize the actual destitution of members of our own community and the realization always comes with the force of a shock.

The city was shocked in this way, on Monday evening to learn of the tragedy in the home of Daniel Lamb, a colored man of Sixteenth street.

While most of us were enjoying the comforts of life, with plenty of raiment, food, and a warm home, here was a home within almost a stone's throw of our own, into which a new life was being ushered only to gasp and die the victim of cold and neglect.

The response which was promptly made to the needs when they were learned, is sufficient evidence that the hearts of the people are right. We wonder if any-

PROBERS REACH KING TUT'S SARCOPHAGUS

Archaeologists, led by Lord Carnarvon, have opened the inner chamber of the tomb of King Tutankhamen at Luxor, Egypt, which contains the sarcophagus with the remains of the monarch of thirty centuries ago. The chamber is said to contain unaltered treasures of the age of the pharaohs. The body has not been disturbed. The treasures are being removed.

He probably wouldn't have time, he'd be too busy starting a cigarette factory.

Indulging by the jewels they found, must have had a lot of "iron" in it. Pretty soft for "Tut" sitting there on the Nile—call in a servant and say, "Crack up the shaver and give over to Cleopatra's I feel a fox trot coming on."

Said he never saw Ziegfeld's folks and I don't suppose he even had a radio.

If the undertaker who did the job was an advertiser, couldn't he have a "caviar slogan"—"When we bury 'em they stay buried."

Did you notice what Isadora Duncan said about America? What are we ever going to do?

Said "The Russians were regular fellows." Then she married one and he brought her over here and flunked one of her eyes. Those horned men are all alike.

Nazimova does the dance of the seven veils in her new version of Salome. Duncan only used one in Boston and they had her punched.

She was born in California. Guess that's where she got her "sunny" disposition.

After he blackened her eyes he kicked her down the stairs. "A falling stone gathers no moss," but it is the landing with an awful bump.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"FRANCE CANNOT GAIN ENDS BY CRUSHING GERMAN PEOPLE"

"It is unfortunate that Germany has not seen fit to do her utmost to pay her obligations and maintain the value of her currency," he said, "and then rely upon the sympathy and help of the rest of the world."

when America's voice will be heard for peace and justice to all of Europe and that it will be welcome, heard and heeded. We know that when the day arrives, President Harding and Secretary Hughes will give expression to it. But I am not in favor of the United States Senate deciding the time when action shall be taken or in building up false hopes in any nation in Europe that the United States is ready to help it against others, regardless of justice and equity, and that it should be clearly understood too, that the United States has not a dollar to help any nation to maintain huge standing armies or to enable them to assist one nation in fighting another.

"We must not isolate ourselves from the rest of the world, but realize that we are a part of it and have a responsibility to it. This we can do without any sacrifice of our sovereignty or independence. We never shall surrender to any league or association of nations the right to determine for us when and how and where we shall engage in war. No American boy shall ever be sent to fight and die anywhere except with the consent of his own government. We owe a duty to the rest of the world, but our first is to make civilization safe here in America."

is but on way to peace in Europe. Germany must pay to the utmost limit of her ability to pay, and yet live and occupy a place in the family of nations. France must not seek to crush the German people, nor must she or England or Italy exploit weaker peoples for selfish advantage and imperial domination. "I hope the time is near at hand."

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAY'S NEWS

WALTER C. TEAGLE

Time was when $50,000 a year was an unheard-of salary. But the recent investigation by a senate sub-committee revealed the fact that salaries of from $50,000 to $125,000 a year are not uncommon in the Standard Oil Co. and other concerns.

According to the report filed by the committee, Walter C. Teagle, as chairman of the board and president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, is paid $125,000 a year and is but one of six officials of his company receiving over $100,000 a year.

Teagle is a native of Cleveland, O. He was born May 1, 1878. He received his yearly training in the oil business with the Cleveland firm of Schofield, Shurmer and Teagle. He became vice-president of the Republic Oil Company in 1900 and served in that capacity until he joined the export department of the Standard Oil Co. in 1903 as head of that department. He was elected a director of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey in 1910. Later he was elected a vice-president and in 1917 was named president.

He was elected president of the Imperial Oil Company in 1913 and of the International Petroleum Association in 1915.

His home is in New York City.

ORIGINAL PAPER TELLS OF WASHINGTON'S DEATH

E. A. Manning, Grace court comes to the front with an original copy of the Ulster County Gazette, published at Kingston, Ulster county N. Y. January 4, 1800, by Samuel Frier and Son. This copy is in a good state of preservation and has been in the possession of members of Mr. Manning's family for many years. At that time John Adams was president and there are several references to him, copies of dispatches from London concerning the doings of British troops who were fighting in Germany. It also has an account of the death of General Washington. There are advertisements of merchants of that day, and altogether it is a very interesting relic.

Physicians advise keeping the bowels open as a safeguard against Grippe or Influenza.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Resealing of Ancient Egyptian Tomb to Take Most of Week

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 20.—Tons of limestone will be dumped over the 3500 year old tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, in the valley of the Kings, when it is resealed, until the end of the week. Every precaution will be taken to prevent the tomb from being disturbed during the summer months. A strong police guard is standing before the opened tomb at the present time, turning back curious tourists who seek to enter the outer chamber. Egyptologists have deepened the hieroglyphs on the canopy of the sarcophagus as saying: "Tut-Ankh-Amen, beloved son of Ra, lord of the two lands of Egypt, is taken unto Osiris." Experts engaged in laboratory work are taking precautions to preserve the relics in the inner chamber during the period that the apartment will be resealed. It was feared that the fresh atmosphere from the outside, entering the room that had been airtight for more than thirty centuries, might have a deteriorating effect upon some of the art works unless such safeguards were taken. The outer canopy of the sarcophagus, weakened by time, has already been slightly damaged by visitors rubbing against the edges. A few of the heavier articles, such as alabaster vases and jewelry, have been removed from the inner chamber and are virtually intact. They are marvels of workmanship surpassing anything produced to-day. Large numbers of tourists continue to arrive from all parts of the world, but most of them have to content themselves with a glimpse of the tomb's doorway and a few of the solid art objects which are displayed at the laboratory.

Ohio Mayor

asked that two charges be stricken from the records. These charges claimed the mayor had not enforced "other laws of Ohio, and that liquor was drunk by members of the police force. Attorney McHugh claimed that the charge of non-law enforcement was too general and that the other charge failed to state that intoxicants were used with the knowledge of Mayor Vogt. The governor promptly overruled these objections.

H. J. Burton, Cleveland, a private investigator, was the first man called to the stand by the prosecution. He was questioned by assistant attorney general E. E. Corn. Burton said he was in Massillon from June 4, 1922 to September 17, 1922, and made an investigation under the name of "J. J. Jackson." He said he found on his arrival, nine places operating where liquor was illegally sold, where gambling occurred and immorality took place.

Offered Protection Burton said he was offered protection if he would buy a share in a gambling joint. On June 22, he said he visited Mayor Vogt and asked if he could open a "stud poker" game. He testified that the mayor said he did not know the person of any game going on, and that Mr. Jackson would have to look out for himself. # Canadian Women Face Gallows In Murders

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 20.—Canada today is aroused by the prospect of sending two women to the gallows—one for the murder of an officer, another for slaying her husband.

They are Mrs. Florence Lassandra, convicted of killing Constable S. O. Lawson, and Mrs. Joseph Christian, sentenced for the death of her husband. Both women are residents of Alberta. Sentiment throughout the dominion has been invoked in an effort to secure clemency and abolish the death penalty for women. It has been met by fervid arguments of those who believe there should be no discrimination.

Added feeling has been given the controversy by the furor aroused by the execution in England of Mrs. Flora Thompson for the murder of her husband. Mrs. Lassandra and Emilio Piccarillo, originally sentenced to die tomorrow, were granted a month's stay of execution on the intimation that appeal of the sentence would be taken to the supreme court of Canada.

Sentiment in the woman's favor, strong in other provinces of Canada, is almost negligible in the woman's home, where the inhabitants are said to have been so aroused by the officer's death that they are clamoring for the woman's life. So intense is the feeling, that the women's welfare association of Canada, which protested on general grounds against the execution of a woman, was unable to induce any newspaper in Calgary or Edmonton to print its plea. One Calgary newspaper even refused to accept a paid advertisement setting forth the association's stand.

No appeal from the original sentence was taken in the case of Mrs. Christian, but she is not sentenced to die until April, an appeal probably will be made.

Rub on Good Old Musterole
That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.
Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.
Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.
As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.
Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

careful student, the interesting about history is in the relationships it establishes between what we see occurring today and what occurred yesterday, or ten years ago, or a century ago. History is a narrative; it cannot be a mere catalogue of events. Unless we understand the cause and effect, the why and the how, of our national and social life, we have studied our history in vain. It is not a mere record of the past, but a guide to the future. It is the story of the human race, of its struggles, its triumphs, its failures, and its hopes. It is the story of the world, of its changes, its progress, its decline, and its renewal. It is the story of the human mind, of its discoveries, its inventions, its art, its science, its philosophy, its religion, its politics, its economics, its social life, its culture, its civilization, its progress, its decline, and its renewal. engagement today to speak in Elvira comes from Cleveland in a wonderfully efficient, self-propelling vehicle called an automobile. On a strange contrivance called pneumatic tires, over brick and macadam pavements, coming perhaps an hour for the journey. It is his courage to match his judgment, he might have come by airplane in a quarter of the time. To fill such an engagement 100 years ago the speaker would also have enjoyed certain options as to his manner of conveyance. He might come afoot; he might ride a horse; he might come as a passenger in a great lumbering stage—over brick and macadam. Or, no. Through mud hubs, deep, picking his way amid stumps and fallen trees, he would have crossed the Cuyahoga river on the first bridge to span that stream, completed that very year, and built of oak planking laid on floating logs. Part of his travelling equipment would have been, not a spare tire and a foot pump but an ax and perhaps a saw to cut the obstructions of the forest from his path. From New York to Boston at that time was a day's journey. The oceanic cable was still years in the future. News from Europe reached the United States in from one to three months. The Battle of New Orleans, last of the War of 1812, was fought three weeks after the signing at Ghent, in Belgium, of the treaty that nominally ended the war. The editor of a Cleveland weekly newspaper of this period apologized to his readers for printing news from overseas, arriving in his session at Columbus, 125 miles distant, explaining that for some reason unknown to him no dispatches had arrived since his last issue. As late as 1815 there was mail but once a week between Detroit and Cleveland.

mountain passes, drifted down the rivers in crude craft of home design, followed Indian trails through the woods and came to take possession of this new country not in battalion formation, but as corporal guards. The first settlers in Ohio came through the mountains and down the Ohio to Marietta in 1788. The Western Reserve was first entered nearly ten years later by men who crossed New York near the route of the future Erie canal and reached Cleveland by way of the lake from Buffalo. The treaty which brought to end the Revolutionary war was signed, as you remember in 1783. Four years later occurred two events practically simultaneous which now, after more than a century's lapse of time, still bulk large in the history of popular government. One was the formulation and submission of the federal constitution creating our present form of national government—"the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given moment by the brain and purpose of man," as the English statesman Gladstone declared years afterward. The other was the enactment by the Continental congress of the Ordinance of 1787 creating from territory ceded to the nation by states along the Atlantic what came immediately to be known as the Northwest territory, and establishing a government for it. From this territory, as you know, was first carved the state of Ohio in 1803—the year of the Louisiana purchase—and then in the years that followed, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. In Ohio and in that part of Ohio called the Western Reserve our chief interests lie. It is a part of our national history which is or should be familiar to us all.

portion of the Reserve east of the Cuyahoga where Cleveland was founded a short time later. Finally in 1795 she disposed to private purchasers of all that remained of the Reserve except some half-million acres at the western end of the tract known as the "firelands" which the state still retained for the benefit of Connecticut citizens who had suffered from the ravages of the British during the war. But not until 1805 was the old Indian title extinguished by the treaty made at Fort Industry. Even the old Moses Cleveland, it is remembered, had to dicker with the thrifty Red man for lands already purchased by his company from the government of Connecticut; and paid for the title to the area east of the Cuyahoga—let us Volsteadian hear this—two beef cattle and 100 gallons of whisky! The Reserve as a whole was sold by Connecticut at an average of about forty cents an acre. There were, you will recall, five principal and fairly distinct nerve centers energizing in the beginning the future great commonwealth of Ohio. 1. Marietta was settled in 1788 at the confluence of the Ohio and Muskingum rivers by the Ohio company, made up in large part of men from Connecticut and Massachusetts and representing what may be termed the more liberal elements of the New England Puritan stock. 2. The Symmes purchase on the Ohio between the two Miami rivers was settled largely by men from New Jersey, with a mixture of Scotch-Irish and Hollanders. 3. The Virginia military district between the Scioto and the Little Miami rivers was taken possession of by groups partly Marylandic but mostly Virginian—an adventurous Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough and dry. Nothing soothes fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist. The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up. A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.—Adv.

Millions of wishes created this record

EVERY time a phonograph record has been played these past twenty years—ever since the first disc record—some one has wished that surface sound might be abolished.

Millions and millions of times it has been wished—by people with sensitive nerves, who hear the noise of needle friction above everything—by keen-eyed music lovers listening for delicate phrasing and expression, which they know to be there, but which are drowned in the blur of surface sounds.

Those millions of wishes have at last come true in the form of Columbia New Process Records. Columbia engineers and chemists solved the problem by the discovery of a new surface substance so fine and smooth that the needle travels over it almost inaudibly.

All of the Columbia Records out to-day are made with this amazingly quiet, new surface.

Tear out this list and take it to a Columbia Dealer. He will play any or all that you request. Note the fullness and sweetness of tone, a finer musical quality than you ever heard before. Note the absence of any annoying surface distraction.

As an example of this wonderful new construction and superior musical charm ask to hear A-3770. It's that pair of cat-eyes, Van and Schenck, singing "You Tell Her—I Stutter." They sizzle like a soda fountain, but it's a goddess musical gurgling. "Away Down East in Maine," on the other side, is a melody of New England's good ones.

Only in Columbia New Process Records can you obtain this perfection of surface quietness. The process is patented.

The above listed records are now in stock. Come in and let us play these superior records for you. Once you hear the new process Columbia Records you will have no other.

have probably the beginning of good roads movement, as we know today. And here, parenthetically, may raise the question whether or all that great Kentuckian, Clay, really merits the title bears as the father of internal movements; whether, in fact, he does not rather belong to this Ohio statesman, Thomas Worthington, who served as a colleague in the senate.

Promoted Resources was recognized, particularly in east, that unless this great new could be bound to the olden of the country by improved transportation facilities of one kind, no other union would almost sinfully fall apart. With the Ohio the Mississippi flowing freely he southwest and a grim mountain range barring ready access to east, why should the people of lake region and the Ohio valley bother about any shadow of political allegiance to the thirteen or al states? common schools" throughout Ohio. Seven men, note: In these days there would have been at least two or three women on that commission—another sign of twentieth century superiority.

May I stop backward in the narrative for a moment to pick up just briefly some other events of interest occurring at about this period.

In 1806 the great Cumberland road—later called the National highway—designed to reach from the Potomac to the Mississippi, was begun. It had reached Ohio in 1822.

In 1812 came the second war with England. The few settlers there in Ridgeville heard of Hull's surrender of Detroit, believed a rumor that the victorious British intended marching back east through this section, and took flight to the neighboring township of Columbia for protection. The next year they listened to the guns of Commodore Perry at Put-in-Bay and rejoiced at the turn in the tide of war.

In 1817 was signed the Rush-Bagot treaty, by virtue of which we have had for more than a century an unfortified international boundary line stretching across this continent from sea to sea, uniting rather than dividing those two great English-speaking peoples of the western world.

In 1819 the first steam vessel crossed the Atlantic ocean. The continents of Europe and America joined hands and the beginning of the end of American isolation, so much prized by the Revolutionary fathers was at hand.

In 1820, James Monroe was re-elected president of the United States and the "Era of Good Feeling" was about to begin. In this same year the Missouri Compromise was promulgated under which our statesmen imagined the slavery question was settled. O, the shortsightedness of wise men!

First Lake Steamer

In 1821 the "Walk-In-the-Water" the first steamboat on the Great Lakes, was wrecked at Buffalo after a brief and doubtful career. Its successor was launched the next year; and every year since then its lineal descendants have come down the ways until the multitude of its followers float in the harbors of the world.

In 1822 the United States had recognized the independence of the new South American republics and European rule had been practically swept from this continent from Cape Horn to Canada. Then a year later came the historic Monroe doctrine. "The American continents are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers." It was a high water mark of American statesmanship and the contribution of a new chapter to international jurisprudence.

I have already detained you too long. History is much like reminiscence. When one gets to the age of reminiscence he approaches oldhood, and second childhood is always garrulous.

If I have been able to present to your minds something of the background of the picture, we see of Northern Ohio today, I have accomplished all I set out to do. The world is small after all. The act of a cowardly ministry in the tragic summer of 1914 started a conflagration of war that engulfed the earth, as a tiny, insignificant match carelessly dropped into a pile of rubbish may start a fire that destroys a magnificent city. The things we do and say are influenced by what someone else has done or said perhaps on the other side of the globe. Such events as the settlement of a town is part of great radical movements which go on and on and on, whither and to what purpose it is not given us to know.

One hundred years ago the world in its mechanics and its social relations was thought "complex." We are amused at the thought that conditions relatively so simple should have been characterized by an adjective so expressive of puzzlement. What will our grandchildren and great grandchildren be saying 100 years hence of the problems that beset us now? What means of communication greater than the radio will be carrying the messages of the world in 2022? What method of locomotion swifter than the airplane will be flitting across the country when another hundred years have passed. We cannot know; we would not know.

What of The Future?

What will our new social relations be? Will capital and labor be still resorting to cave-man tactics in the settlement of their disputes or will such disputes have become like the saloon, a memory but not a regret? Will there still be corruption and bribery and oppression? We cannot know; enough to understand our responsibility to make the world brighter, saner and better as we advance.

Enough for us to know that we, individually and in groups, are parts of the great onward movement. We may retard or hasten we cannot stop it. We make each our big or little mark on events as they transpire, writing our names as it were on the great endless belt of time. We have magnificent inheritance of civilization to protect and strengthen and to hand down improved to succeeding genera-

— Take an NR Tonight —

JUST TRY IT AND SEE how much better you feel in the morning. That "leggy" headachy, tired, don't-know-what's-the-matter feeling will be gone—you'll feel fine.

TROUBLE IS, your system is clogged with a lot of impurities that your overworked digestive and eliminative organs can't get rid of. Pills, oils, salts, calomel and ordinary laxatives, cathartics and purges only force the bowels and prod the liver.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and even kidneys, not forcing, but toning and strengthening these organs. The result is prompt relief and real, lasting benefit. Make the test. Nature's Remedy will act promptly, thoroughly, yet so mildly, so gently, that you will think nature herself has come to the rescue and is doing the work.

And oh, what a relief! You'll be surprised to find how much better you feel—brighter, better every way.

If habitually or stubbornly constipated, take one NR Tablet each night for a week. Then you'll not have to take medicine every day. Just an occasional NR Tablet dose that will be sufficient to keep your system in good condition—keep you feeling your best.
